

PHYSICAL DRAMA online classes

A regular training

PHYSICAL DRAMA is first of all a regular training for physical performers coming from dance, theatre or circus, who like to improve their abilities through the technique of Etienne Decroux 'corporeal mime.'

- rhythrical and flexibility exercises
- isolation of elements / contradictions
- counterweights

Dramaturgy of visual theatre

We go into the dramaturgy of visual theatre by analyzing etudes or figures coming from the repertoire in a very large scale of the physical theatre :

from Decroux's figures to modern choreographies of contemporain dancers or stage directors (Bausch, Marin, Wilson, Nadj ...) and some steps backwards to physical performances documented from the 16 - 17th century.

Conversation pieces

The third part of the lesson will be the compositions :

We develop over several lessons a theme or we retrace the context of an artist (like we have done with Kafka, Lorca, Bacon, ...) and we create a longer 'conversation piece' which everyone could personalize and develop on his/ her own creativity .

Conversation pieces are also the perfect pretext to create links to other artistic disciplines and to connect to other cultural areas and languages .

-Although Physical Drama is a Berlin-based atelier, the online-classes will be held in English with the possibility to translate if necessary in German, Italian or French.

-The class runs for 55 minutes, it's by my experience the best timing to hold concentration online.

Connection

We will use a Zoom link on the website. If you should have any problems with the link just send an e-mail or SMS .

Price

The price is 8 euro the class.
